One-Man Crusade Near Brink of 'Clink'

A personal crusade against "suggestive" literature nearly led to a jail cell last week for a taxicab driver who is a student at the Dr. Fuller Seminary, Pasadena.

Sierra Madre police reported that William G. Reitzer, 33, of 135 N. Oakland, nearly landed in the clink when he entered the Farmer's Market, 444 Sturtevant, and proceeded to tear up five copies of "Gala Magazine," described as a "girlie" publication.

After an exchange of hot words between Reitzer and Roy Farmer, owner of the market, the latter called police.

When Patrolman A. R. Ponesse arrived, Reitzer had gone. Officer Ponesse, however, found Reitzer in the Sierra Madre taxi office, and advised him that there are other ways to object to distasteful literature besides embarking on a one-man crusade.

When faced with the prospect of prosecution, Reitzer agreed to pay Farmer $1.75 for the five magazines, and the latter, in turn, agreed not to prefer charges.

POLICE ALSO reported that attempts have been made to remove fire plug caps at several locations here.

As a result, the threads were stripped on several plugs, making it difficult, and in some cases impossible, to connect to a fire hose.

The plugs were tampered with at 633 E. Grand View, at Grand View and Mountain Trail, and on Canon and Highland Aves. At each location, police said, an empty

James Wolfe Seeks High Kiwanis Post

James Wolfe, president of the Sierra Madre Kiwanis Club, is a candidate for lieutenant governor of the organization from Division 15, it was announced Tuesday.

Wolfe, a member of the Kiwanis Club here for several years, is owner of Youngland, department store for children.

At the Kiwanis Club meeting next week, a movie, "Wild Flowers of the West," will be presented by Neal Broadway of the Richfield Oil Co.

IN THE WEEK'S only accident, a young man and his girl friend miraculously escaped injury when their car smashed into a tree on Canon Ave., above Alegria, and was demolished.

The driver, Gary G. Gillette, 20, of 1312 S. Eighth, Arcadia, said he took his eye off the road momentarily to look at his girl friend, Judy Mitzenbacher, of Puente, when the accident occurred.

POLICE ALSO this week disposed of another rattlesnake, this one at 410 Church-ill Rd.

SHE'S QUEEN OF A MILLION — Pretty Joan Suggs, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Suggs, of West Covina, has been chosen to preside over the festivities of the 31st annual Los Angeles County Fair, Pomona, Sept. 12-23, where a million or more visitors will pass through the turnstiles in the 17 days. Selected by a panel of competent judges, she was one of 11 finalists named by popular vote from 500 coeds at Mt. San Antonio College. The remaining 10 serve as princesses of the royal court.

Painless Way to Raise Money Oked by Artists

A new, painless—even pleasing—way to raise money for the annual Purchase Prize art show has been devised by the Exhibits Committee, Friends of the Sierra Madre Library.

The committee, according to Chairman Bill Palmer, will conduct tours of the top artist studios in the Pasadena-Sierra Madre area.

These will include the studios of Dorothy Jordan, David Schnabel, Frode Dann, and the Pasadena School of Fine Arts, under the direction of Joseph Mugnaini.

THE TOUR is being planned for the afternoon of Sunday, Oct. 5, from 1 to 4 p.m. Tickets will sell for $1.50 a person, and may be obtained by writing Palmer at P.O. Box 103, Sierra Madre, or by phoning him at ELgin 5-7449, or Mrs. W. Hallis, ELgin 5-2262.

The Purchase Prize show this year will be held in the Library Gallery on Saturday, Nov. 1, from 2 to 5 p.m. Some of the nation's top artists are expected to exhibit.

Chest Fund Drive Set Saturday

Opening of the campaign to raise $11,000 in voluntary contributions for the Sierra Madre Community Chest will be marked Saturday by placing of posters in business places and the erection of a large red and white "thermometer" in the Kersting Ct. triangle.

At the same time, residents of Sierra Madre will receive in the mail their chance to share in the efforts to help others of the community. Contributions may be sent to the Chest in self-addressed envelopes requiring no postage. This will mean that volunteer solicitors need not call at those homes sending in gifts by mail.

ALSO, EMPLOYEES who contribute to the Community Chest at their place of work can designate that their gifts be returned to Sierra Madre and be counted toward the local campaign. This enables all to "give where you live."

Heading the campaign here is Mrs. C. L. Young, chairman, with Mrs. E. N. Shaw as her co-chairman. Campaign committee members include James F. Abernethy, Mrs. Maggie Ascher, Kenneth A. Green, Gordon McMillan, R. J. Rickman, J. Bryce Tyler and William A. Vensel.

The $11,000 budget includes allocations to these agencies: Boy Scouts, $2,180; Girl Scouts, $1,660; Camp Fire Girls, $1,160; Community Nursery School, $750; Toy Loan, $700; Children's Hospital, $450; Orthopaedic Hospital, $200; Visiting Nurses Association, $750; Family Service, $2,000; Travelers' Aid, $50; and the United Service Organization, $100.

OFFICERS OF the Chest are William H. Coulson Jr., president; Mrs. C. L. Young, vice president; E. R. Mitchell, treasurer, and Mrs. B. N. Cousins, secretary.

"The services provided our community by these agencies make Sierra Madre a better place in which to live," Mrs. Young emphasized.

Thursday Is Registration Deadline

Leaders of both Democratic and Republican Parties yesterday urged workers to get every possible name on the precinct list for the Nov. 4 general election.

Thursday (today) is the final day of registration for registration.

American citizens, by birth or naturalization, who will be 21 years of age by Nov. 4, who have resided in California for one year, in Los Angeles County for 90 days and in their current precinct for 54 days may register.

Persons who have moved since registering, who have changed their names, changed occupations, or failed to vote in either the last primary or general election must re-register.

Persons may call City Hall, City of Sierra Madre, for information on where to register.

Harold Roberts, Heart Victim, in Critical Condition

Harold Roberts, owner of Roberts Market, was reported in critical condition yesterday following a heart attack Friday, Sept. 6. He is in Huntington Memorial Hospital.

Roberts suffered a second serious heart attack in less than a year at 8 a.m. Friday in his home. His first attack occurred last Dec. 28.

A former city councilman, Roberts has been active in civic affairs in Sierra Madre for many years. He built his business from a small fruit and vegetable store into one of the finest markets in this area.

Local Man Gets CEC Promotion

E. James Penrose, 78 E. Highland, has been named administrative manager of the Central Engineering Division, Consolidated Electrody-namics Corp., it was announced yesterday by Joseph H. Lanor Jr., vice president in charge of development. Penrose formerly was assistant to Lanor.

Francis T. Greenup, formerly chief product engineer, was named manager of engineering services and manager of the Alctra Department, which designs and manufactures CEC's Alctra line of portable test instruments.

George M. Slocumb, formerly supervisory principal engineer, was promoted to assistant chief development engineer.

Penrose, a graduate of McGill University in Montreal, joined Consolidated in 1957. Previously, he headed his own firm, James Penrose & Co., management consultants; was in charge of the chemical market research department, Dominion Tar & Chemical Co.; was manager of the Bruce Ross Chemical Works; and was an engineer with Aluminum Co. of Canada and Consolidated Paper Corp.

Greenup joined CEC in 1955 as chief design engineer and became chief product engineer in September, 1957. Previously, he spent four years with Vitro Corp. of America, Washington, D.C., where as a division engineer he headed a technical staff engaged in naval ordnance work.

Slocumb, a graduate of the University of Southern California with a B.S. Degree in electrical engineering, has been with CEC in various engineering capacities since 1950.

The Hiestand headquarters is combined with the Altadena Republican Women's Club volunteers. The telephone numbers for the joint operation are SYcamore 8-8986 and 87.

Classes Start Monday For 880 Pupils Here

Third Grade School Day Is Extended

A total of 880 students will troop to Sierra Madre's two public elementary schools Monday on the first day of the new school year. This is 20 more than attended last year.

Bad news is in store for third graders, although their parents will probably be pleased. They will have to attend classes a half-hour longer this year, according to the decision of the Board of Education at its meeting Monday night.

The third grade day will be extended from 2 to 2:30, and it's possible that later in the year the length of the day for fourth through sixth graders may also be increased. School Superintendent Robert E. Walker was asked by the Board to study and report on this possibility.

THE FIRST day of school will be operated on a full schedule, with lunch served in the cafeterias. Buses will run on the regular schedule, and lunch prices will remain the same as last year.

Walker advised new families in the district to take advantage of the pre-school registration from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily at Sierra Mesa and Sierra Madre School.

Because of the increase in the number of students, the all-purpose room at Sierra Mesa will serve as a classroom this year, and pupils who bring their lunches will eat in their home rooms.

WALKER, WHO attended his first meeting with the Board as school superintendent Monday night, inaugurated several changes. These include:

1. The district office has been shifted from its location in the former kindergarten room at Sierra Madre School to the room immediately to the east.

2. The district office, as established by Dr. Lowell Jackson, who resigned, is now a "curriculum laboratory" where teachers may work on classroom aids. In addition, all the tools used in classes by Sierra Madre youngsters are on display there, including books, and may be inspected by parents. The room will also be used for School Board meetings, as in the past, and for other special purposes.

3. The agenda of each Board meeting will be opened for opinions and comments by visitors, early in the session.

4. Walker plans to hold four or five special Board meetings a year to discuss special problems. The school health program will be considered at a special meeting

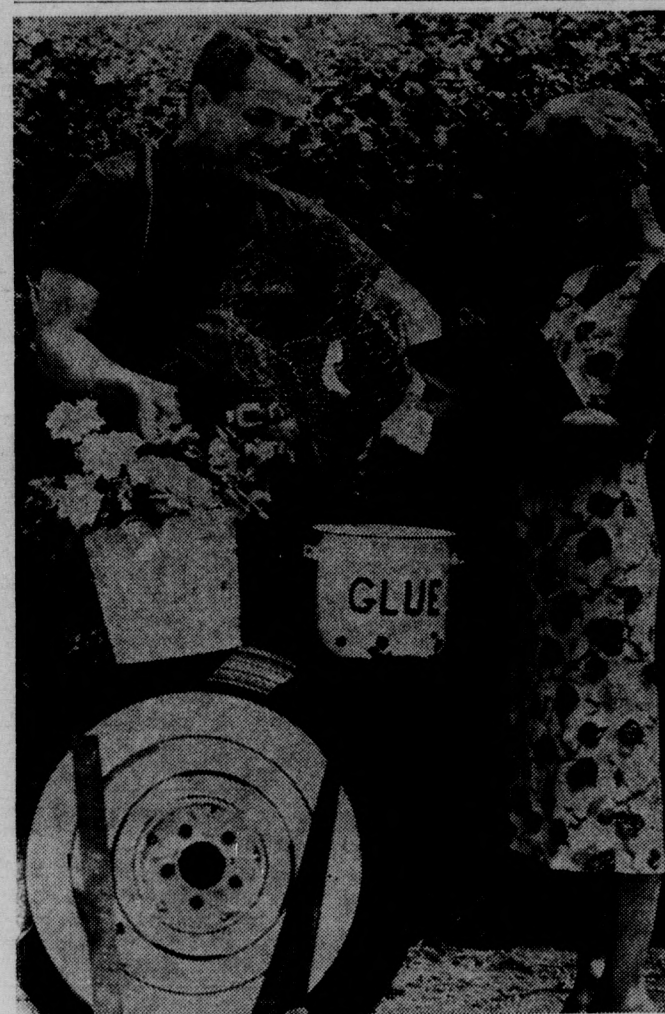

Another native of New Jersey, Mrs. Hearst, now of Long Beach, will teach the fourth grade. A graduate of Beaver College in Pennsylvania, Mrs. Hearst taught third grade last year at Jane Addams Elementary School in Long Beach.

A first grade teacher in Tucson, Ariz., last year, Mrs. Wombacher will fill the same position here. She received her bachelor of arts degree in elementary education at Grinnell (Ia.) College. She also attended Pomona College, Santa Barbara College and Washington University for summer work. Mrs. Wombacher is a native of Iowa.

A native of Monrovia and a veteran teacher in Los Angeles area schools, Mrs. Chalk will teach second grade. She attended Santa Barbara College and holds a bachelor of arts degree from State Teachers College. Last year she taught sixth grade in Yuma, Ariz.

FIESTA ARTS

The fifth annual art fiesta at Padua Hills opened Tuesday featuring prominent Southland artists who will demonstrate their work through Saturday. The artists will perform their specialties before spectators daily from 2 to 10 p.m.

BURDENED DOWN with glue, chicken wire, flowers and assorted items necessary in the construction of a Rose Parade float is Cliff Stowell, chairman of the local Float Committee, while taskmaster Mrs. Bobbie Hartwell checks off the plunder. Despite the deceptive appearance, the committee is hard at work perusing ideas submitted by local residents for next year's float. If you have an idea, and want to win a prize, send it to Float Contest, City Hall, Sierra Madre. Theme of the coming tournament is "Adventure in Flowers."

Float Committee Has $1,250 Fund Goal

T.A.D. (Tad) Fessenden has been named chairman of the Fund Raising Committee of the Sierra Madre Float Association, it was announced yesterday.

The committee, at a meeting last Thursday night, decided that the best method to raise funds would be through soliciting Sierra Madre residents, merchants, professional people, businesses and service clubs.

ALL DONATIONS of a specified amount, to be determined by a personal solicitor, will receive an attractive certificate, Fessenden said. The donor also will be eligible for a drawing in which four free tickets for the 1959 Rose Bowl game will be given away.

Only a minimum amount in donations will be required this year.

As it has done in the past, the City Council has given the Float Association $1,000, and there is an additional $250 left over from last year's budget. Fessenden and the committee hope to double this present balance through the fund drive.

ONE REASON additional funds are needed is to purchase a suitable vehicle which can be altered and used by all future city floats. Among members of the Finance Committee are George T. Fleming, Robert F. Gordon, Cecil Hicks, Leo Horswell, Lawrence Lydick, Ed Riggins and Henry B. Rose. Clifford Stowell is association chairman.

Track Fire Loss Set at $250,000

Reconstruction is under way at the swank President's Room of the Santa Anita Turf Club, Arcadia, which was gutted by fire early Monday. Damages were estimated at $250,000.

The fire was apparently started by sparks from a welder's torch.

Several hours after Gwynn Wilson, vice president and general manager, first estimated damages at $100,000, he learned six valuable paintings were destroyed along with the Georgian pine paneling, finely carved mantle piece and oak floors.

Most of the expensive furnishings were imported by the late Dr. Charles Strub, former vice president of the track. The paneling, mantle piece and flooring had been removed from Albury Hall, Little Hadham, near Bishop's Stortford, England, and refitted into the President's Room.

Two of the most expensive items destroyed were Georgian chandeliers worth $10,000 each.

Scholarship Funds Aid Nursery School

(This is another in a series about agencies supported by the Sierra Madre Community Chest. The local Red Feather drive leaders urge all residents to "give where you live," designating "at work" contributions to be returned to Sierra Madre so that the local goal may be reached as in the past.)

Providing scholarships for children at the Community Nursery School, 701 E. Sierra Madre Blvd., is one of the many constructive projects sponsored by the Sierra Madre Community Chest.

During the most formative years, between the age of 2½ and school entrance, children find companions their own age at the Nursery School.

THE CHILDREN enjoy intelligently supervised group play. The children find loads of interesting and constructive things to do.

The parents receive help in understanding their young children and in planning for their maximum development.

All these things are provided at the Community Nursery School, a veritable

End of the Doldrums

Things are looking up in Sierra Madre! The summer doldrums are about ended, the recession appears primarily an unpleasant memory (we hope), and many of the businesses are sprucing up their stores.

Fresh paint is being applied to store fronts along the west side of Baldwin, and on Sierra Madre Blvd., Roess Market has installed a new tile front.

THE BIGGEST change has been made by Garland's, whose store in venerable Kersting Ct. has been completely remodeled—new front, new shelves, new yard goods display and lush carpeting.

Down the road apiece, Sears, Roebuck has opened its ultra-modern store—a development which has created consternation in the breasts of many Sierra Madre businessmen.

That Sears is an imposing piece of architecture can hardly be denied, that it will attract thousands of customers can scarcely be refuted.

But the gloomy assumption that a big, vigorous department store in our own back yard will hurt business, it seems to me, unfounded. To the contrary, Sears should actually help business in Sierra Madre, providing we take advantage of our natural attributes.

DONALD LA MOTTE, manager of Sears, pointed out at a speech he made several months ago before the Kiwanis Club, that business has prospered in every area where Sears has built a store.

Sears will, it's true, draw thousands of customers, but many of them will be from out of this area and some will undoubtedly find their way up Michilinda to Sierra Madre. There also are many people now employed at Sears who live in Sierra Madre. Some of them, certainly, will buy here.

Sierra Madre still has a village atmosphere that is attractive to many shoppers; its businesses are small enough to retain a personality—one doesn't get lost in the shuffle in Sierra Madre.

THERE ARE approximately 25,000 people who live in this shopping area, and that area, whether we like it or not, also includes the Hastings Ranch Shopping Center, the Foothill Rosemead Center, and the new center dominated by Sears, as well as Sierra Madre.

If the bulk of these 25,000 can be persuaded to buy in their own shopping area, there will be plenty of business for everybody.

Shoppers, however, won't buy at home simply out of loyalty. They must be assured of good service, reasonable prices and intelligent merchandising.

It's heartening to note that Sierra Madre businessmen are aware of their potential and are doing something about it.—H.W.E.

Lee Shippey asks What Do You Think?

Every now and then one of our older sports authorities laments that we aren't producing the men we used to produce.

"Where today," he demands, "is there a Joe Louis, a Jack Dempsey, a Joe Gans or a Battling Nelson?"

I must admit that such paragons are rare in the prize ring but evidently there are more than plenty of them around. The fact seems to be that instead of choosing the many art of self-defense for a career they are all becoming either private eyes or cowboy heroes in radio and television. Here is the evidence:

MANY A PRIZEFIGHT lasts 15 rounds for the simple reason that neither combatant can land a wallop powerful enough to knock the other cold, even after his knees have begun to buckle. The average ring battle lasts eight or nine rounds. The battlers rain blows on one another, yet none of them is knocked down. When a pugilist does go down it usually is the result of dozens of wallops which have weakened him.

But it's never that way in a TV horse opera or a radio detective mystery. No matter how big, powerful or protected the villain is or how off-balance the hero is, one punch is all the latter needs to put his opponent to sleep for as long a time as the occasion demands.

Such exhibitions of manly prowess are most comforting. Indeed, without him Sierra Madre never could have been the lovely city it is.

pushbutton age is softening us into a decadent race. On the contrary, we are producing so many supermen that it is a dull evening when we can't see several of them with our own eyes, on our own TV screens. In fact, they have become so commonplace that often it is a dull evening because of them.

I'M SORRY I couldn't be one of those present to honor C. W. Jones on his 90th birthday anniversary. The greatest thing anyone can do is his honest best for the welfare and happiness of his own little world, which is made up of those with whom he comes in daily contact in his home, neighborhood, his community and his job.

One can't do that without earning more respect and affection from those who know him best than many persons who become nationally or internationally famous can ever achieve, and ever since he came to Sierra Madre in 1906 Mr. Jones has been just that kind of citizen.

As family man, neighbor and citizen, Mr. Jones has never shirked responsibilities, has willingly assumed some which others had shirked and has labored hard to solve many community problems, including our fundamental water problem.

His sympathy for those in trouble is indicated by his more than 50 years of service to the Red Cross. Without him the Historical Society might have ceased to exist and the Annals of Sierra Madre might never have been published.

Indeed, without him Sierra Madre never could have been the lovely city it is.

LIBRARY NEEDS

Dear Sir:
Could the enclosed clipping from Art Ryons' column in the Los Angeles Times also apply to our beautiful new library?

According to A.K.J.'s recent letter to you... there is a shortage of books on our library shelves.

Our local Friends of the Library has done a wonderful job of bringing art culture to our attention, but don't you think it could also lend its able support in helping supply our primary literary need—books?

Questioningly yours,
BEATRICE M. SYRTE

RYON DROLLERY

Mrs. Lillian Strickland of the Lamanda Park branch of the Pasadena Public Library was quietly going about her work the other day when a woman, who had just left and who obviously had forgotten something, dashed back in and asked anxiously, "Have you seen a book?" (L.A. Times, 9/3/58.)

GOEDIKE PRAISED

For two years (since I first saw his work at the L.A. County Museum) I have hoped to see an exhibit of Shirle Goedike's paintings.

His one-man show opened Wednesday at the library Gallery and is one of the finest, in both skill and excitement, that the Gallery has ever shown.

Bill Palmer and his Exhibits Committee deserve congratulations—and the Gallery deserves a visit from everyone who delights in good painting.

In my opinion, that is,
Sincerely,

Soup to Nonsense...

Don't Be Wallflower—Get Sick, Sick, Sick

By Jane Goodsell

For a long time I couldn't figure out why I wasn't a success socially. I was cheerful, polite and a good listener, but nobody paid any attention to me.

I wandered disconsolately around the edges of parties, trying to smile and wishing somebody would speak to me.

I changed my deodorant and my mouthwash and, when that didn't do any good, I almost gave up. But I didn't give up, and you mustn't either—all the rest of you who feel lonely, rejected and unpopular.

INSTEAD, I straightened my shoulders, opened my eyes and looked around me. Gradually I began to realize what was wrong.

I was retarded. I was immature. I was trying to be polite and a good sport.

It's no wonder nobody was interested in me. I simply had nothing to offer. Well, I've changed all that, and now I think I can truthfully say that I am just as nasty, neurotic and interesting as the next person.

My first step toward rehabilitating my personality was to change my handwriting. I hate to admit it, but I used to have a signature that any seven-year-old could decipher without difficulty. But now, thank heavens, I have developed a scrawl that when people ask me how I was, perhaps, but people are eyeing me with new respect.

My next move was to break myself of the childish habit of answering "Fine" when people asked me how I was. Instead, I told them that I felt ghastly or fiendish or terribly depressed. I acquired a couple of basic, black neuroses and several fancy little phobias. I recoiled at fluorescent lights, and explained that they made me nervous because of something that happened to me when I was five years old.

I DIDN'T exactly say that I was being psychoanalyzed, but I sort of hinted around. Before long people were talking about me and using the word "fascinating."

I overhauled my mode of entertaining. I went in for creative cookery—foreign dishes with exotic names, seasoned with wines and herbs. These foods taste kind of funny, but they are very interesting and terribly gourmet. I used to serve roast beef and browned potatoes, which everybody gobbled up but nobody talked about. Now I serve coq au vin and lamb curry, which isn't so good to eat, but is marvelous to discuss.

I gave a lot of thought to my guests, too. Back in my old, naive days I invited people who I thought would like each other and have congenial interests.

Now I know that the way to liven up a party is invite a few people who hate each other's guts. There are infinite possibilities—divorced couples, political rivals, litigants in a lawsuit, two women who have the same dream.

THIS SORT of pairing makes for a fascinating party. Even if no jaw-punching develops, there are all sorts of wonderful undercurrents and innuendoes.

The development of a fascinating personality really isn't difficult at all once you get the hang of it. Of course, you may not like yourself very well. But after all, you can't have everything.

And you do want to be popular, don't you? Well, don't you? (Reprinted from The Guild Reporter)

YWCA REGISTRATION

Sept. 22 marks the opening of the fall program in the Pasadena YWCA. Registration for the fall series begins Monday the 15th and runs through Saturday. People are urged to register during these times which the staff woman said, "What did you have planned in order to give me uninterrupted service."

"Yes," answered the guard, thinking that here was someone who remembered a helpful act, though performed in the line of duty. "Well, he is my boy," she said. "What did you have planned in order to give me uninterrupted service."

Around the Square

By Tommy Ann Miller

A local young wife has discovered the camaraderie and help-thy-neighborlyness of fellow sports car drivers. While scooting home alone in her husband's little Karman Ghia one recent evening, the fan belt went to pieces. What then?

First, she was assisted by one elephantine Plymouth (which doesn't count), followed by two Porsches and one MG—all offering their commiserations and extra fan belts. After a fruitless searching trip (courtesy of the first Porsche driver), they finally were able to borrow the right-sized belt from a passing Volkswagen-driving ladyfriend.

(Naturally, it wasn't until sometime later that they found there had been a spare fan belt under the Ghia's hood all along.)

RUG-CUTTING. Rolling out the new carpet at Garland's the other night was pretty much a family affair. While R. E. Garland Sr. and Carl Engle perched on a roll of carpet and kibitzed from the sidewalk, M. M. S. Garland (Senior and Junior), plus Russell and Larry, were busy juggling merchandise, and keeping one jump ahead of the carpet layers.

AFTER THREE days of stalking deer in the Los Padres National Forest one might think Sierra Madre hunter ended up bringing home four horned toads and one garter snake.

HARDY HEADGEAR. "Strawhat" Charlie Ellet, racetrack trainer and exercise man, has been re-nicknamed "No Strawhat Charlie" since safety helmets have become compulsory chapeaus (two many head-kicking horses) for track personnel. The Ellet family is home again now that Del Mar's summer racing season has ended.

MORE HORSEPLAY. Report that Ronnie and Ann Hitchcock are selling their Fullerton home and may move to San Diego (to be nearer his work)—perhaps to raise race horses. Ann, daughter of the Johnson Irish on the east end of the Boulevard, grew up here. Ronnie, formerly lived here with his aunt and uncle, Everett and Elaine (she solo-edits for the Star-News) Hitchcock.

THE DUST still hasn't settled in one local household ("all right, whose fault is it?") where a family of five took off for a seaside week-end to escape the heat. One hundred miles and three sticky hours later they arrived (panting for a swim) and went to get their bathing suits out of the overnight case—which had been left at home in the get-away rush.

WHO'LL KEEP home fires burning until reptile experts, Dick and Mary Reynolds and sons, return from an Oceanside camping trip? Two desert tortoises, five snakes, one black cat, two Mallard ducks, 15 lizards, three Iguanas and assorted toads and mice.

FATHER HARLEY SMITH is back in the Episcopal Church pulpit following a British Columbia vacation. In telling of one fishing trip, he lightly commented: "I didn't catch a thing, although a Presbyterian minister nearby hooked a 52 pound fish—and he was only jigging for cod. I guess God must have been on the other side!"

It Really Happened

A small boy playing on a pier in Santa Monica fell overboard. He was in a swimming suit, and apparently able to keep himself afloat, but had to be pulled out by a lifeguard, who stripped the tired little fellow, wrapped him in a blanket and took him to the life saving station.

A woman, the following day, sought the lifeguard. "Are you the man who rescued the boy yesterday?" she asked.

"Yes," answered the guard, thinking that here was someone who remembered a helpful act, though performed in the line of duty. "Well, he is my boy," she said. "What did you have planned in order to give me uninterrupted service."

Watch on the Potomac...

Who's Behind Attack on Supreme Court?

By Robert G. Spivack

THE SUPREME COURT AND THOSE WHO JUDGE IT—The United States Supreme Court is not immune from criticism. But neither are its critics. The time has come when the motivations of these critics bear some examination.

In the middle of the 1930s the high court was criticized for its failure to respond "to human needs" and its "subservience" to Big Business. The method chosen by Franklin D. Roosevelt to overcome this situation was to enlarge the court. His proposals met stiff resistance; he was accused of trying to "pack" the court and in time the Roosevelt proposals were defeated.

Today many of those same men who defended the "sanctity" of the court and argued that the "law is the law" are loudest in their clamor for curbs on that tribunal. They argue that it fails to exercise "judicial restraint" and that it tends to adopt the role of law-maker rather than law-interpreter.

Right-wing editorialists and Dixie demagogues have tried to whip up public passion to the point where, we are told, it might be unsafe in some parts of the land for Justices of the Supreme Court to walk the streets alone.

What's behind all this furore? And who is behind it?

THE ATTACKS on the high court come from three sources: the Dixie segregationists, the ultra-rightists in Congress personified by Sens.

Jenner of Indiana, Butler of Maryland, Rep. Walter of Pennsylvania and Rep. Clare Hoffman of Michigan; and spokesmen for selected business interests, primarily the oil industry. In some ways the businessmen have been the most restrained in their public utterances but exceedingly effective in getting certain decisions overturned, namely, in reversing the Tidelands decision and the Natural Gas rulings.

Despite wordy protestations and attempts to assume a lofty moral tone, the critics all have one thing in common: they just don't like it when they lose a decision.

That certainly is not unnatural. Losing is hardly ever fun. Yet no one will seriously argue that the Southern Segregationists would be criticizing the court if it had held that the U.S. constitution sanctioned discrimination against Negro school children. Nor would Jenner and company belabor the court if the judges had ruled that their conduct in congressional investigations had been above reproach. Nor would the oil industry be unhappy if the court said it was O.K. for them to exploit public resources any way they pleased.

Of course, no one will dispute the rights of any of these special pleaders to be displeased by high court decisions and to do everything legitimate to get them reversed.

"KILL THE UMPIRE"—It's one thing, though, to get sore at the umpire in a game and another thing to kill him. And that's exactly what the segregationists and their allies are trying to do. When Orval Faubus takes it upon himself to decide which decisions he will obey and which ones he will defy, he sets himself above the court. In effect, he also says he is bigger than the United States government and the people it represents.

When the Virginia legislature says it would rather close its schools than permit the "intermingling" of white and Negro children, it is, in effect, seceding from the United States of America.

THE SIGNIFICANT point, it seems to me, in all the debate over curbing the court is that neither Faubus nor anyone else of any eminence ever argues the points of law. Evidently this means their legal advisers are hard put to find any flaws in the court's reasoning. Certainly if there were any deficiencies they would be pointed out—and quickly.

When the attorney for the Little Rock school board made his plea before the Court he did not once dispute its interpretation of the Constitution. All he said was that some people don't like the law the way it is and would like to be excused from obeying it, because if they are not excused there is going to be trouble. As Chief Justice Warren wryly noted this was a unique argument to present in a court of law.

What if it boils down to whether this is to be a government of laws or a government of mobs. Copyright 1958

THE ATTACKS on the high court come from three sources: the Dixie segregationists, the ultra-rightists in Congress personified by Sens.

Refugees Find Home in Altadena

By Eleanor N. Wood

(This is the final article on a family of Hungarian refugees who settled in Altadena. Last week's article told of the escape from Hungary and of plans for the family's trip to the United States.)

"The truck took us to the airport, where a huge plane took us away. No one on the plane spoke Hungarian and we could not find out where we were going. We got out in a dense fog and asked everyone if this was America. Finally we found someone who could understand us. He said we were in Scotland. We ate again and they told us we would go by sea to America."

"We landed in the United States and were taken to Camp Kilmer, to be processed. No one spoke Hungarian, on the ship, except a handful of people who could only tell us, 'Don't worry now. You are under the protection of the United States government.' We were very curious."

"At last, in Camp Kilmer we found from an interpreter that we were going to Altadena, Calif., a place we had never heard of. All anyone could tell us was that it was near Hollywood. Hollywood! Palm trees and dark glasses and Marilyn Monroe. We had heard of Hollywood but it seemed a very strange place to go after Budapest."

"We got on a train, where again no one spoke Hungarian. The train finally stopped and everyone got off. We woke up alone on the train; it was three o'clock in the morning. We got out, carrying the children, and the train went away. We walked along a long platform into Union Station in Los Angeles."

"Then up scurried a man talking in Hungarian—he was the interpreter and he had overslept. We were almost as glad to see him as the truck outside Vienna. He took us to the house—this house—that the sponsor had rented for us. At last we had a home of our own."

BUT ONCE settled, with Imre in a new job the sponsor had gotten him, Ildeko found a host of new troubles. They lived only a block from a grocery, but she had never shopped for food or cooked anything. She was sent one cookbook from Budapest but it had Hungarian weights and measures.

So for days she went to the butcher and was too timid to try to explain, through the language barrier, what her trouble was. She recognized only cold cuts, so she kept buying them until finally Imre and the children refused to eat another one. "Is this the only kind of meat in this big country?" Imre cried.

She knew raw meat was red and cooked meat brown, so recklessly one day, "I bought something that I didn't know what it was—it cost a lot—and I threw it in a pan until it turned brown. Then we ate it and Imre 'aved about my wonderful cooking.'"

"IMRE BEGAN to talk English." He would say, "I forgot my Hungarian." I didn't know what my husband said. Sometimes I cried. The children said things to each other I couldn't understand. I knew I must learn English, but I was so tired and I had so much to learn, all at once."

Finally she went to a doctor who discovered she was badly anemic; he gave her a tonic which slowly brought back her strength. She was beginning to adjust to all the strangeness when terrible news came from her mother in Budapest: her father had died.

"He had diabetes but he never told us. He didn't want us to worry so he took insulin shots at his office. When we left Hungary he knew he had only a few months to live."

Crushed, she went into full mourning.

"But Imre said to me, 'These people do not mourn for a year. You are in America. You must not wear only black. Mourn inside, but dress as Americans dress.'"

"That was the hardest part," she recalls. "I talked to my priest. He said Imre was right. So I mourned inside, and tried to smile, and felt so wrong. But one day—it was months later—I looked at myself in a mirror."

"You are not a Hungarian any more," I told myself. "Now you are becoming an American. You will live and die in this country and your children will be Americans. Already they are learning good English. Now the God knows what you feel inside. But outside you must be an American—think like one, dress like one, act like one."

"I SAT DOWN and cried, and I thought, I am not Hungarian, but I am not American either. I can never be American. I can't drive a car, or rock and roll—I would rather hear opera and I miss it—I am nothing! Nothing."

"Then I stood up and I thought of my father, who let me go, knowing he would never see me again, into a world he had never seen and could scarcely imagine. I thought: I won't fail them. So many have died to give us a chance. I will be an American."

"Then I knew—I felt for the first time—that my trip was really over and I had found a home at last."

Goedike Exhibit Has
Works of Significance

By Frode N. Dann

A mature artist's color expression is like hand writing or finger print: personal and identifying. Shirle Goedike, now showing a dozen works at the Sierra Madre Library Gallery, paints with a low keyed palette.

Colors are important to him but their quality is soft, as the sounds from a muted violin. One's immediate impression is that his paintings are monochromatic. However, on close examination one finds that the colors are richly varied within their own close range.

SHOULD A painter shout, make his feelings known through strong contrast? Or should he philosophize quietly and care only about being heard by those who have the patience to listen carefully? Mr. Goedike thinks the latter best. And it is rewarding to read or to listen closely in this case.

"Expressionistic realism" might be as good a term as any if you want to classify his mode of expression. It matters little, for this painter is apparently not in least concerned about artistic classification.

He paints with keen perception and sincerity. Broad, abstract underlying designs are made ready for the subject matter, fluid and loosely applied washes bring about a concrete presentation of the idea and, finally, a swift, lively brushline completes the statement of the intended content. It looks as though these three definite steps are logical and apparently no indecisions occur along the way.

Shirle Goedike, though young and comparatively

Portrait Art
Classes Offered
In San Marino

The San Marino Adult Education Department has announced that this year they will begin a course in portrait art, the only course of its type offered in this area.

Robert Uecker will teach it, and also teach the same course in painting that proved so popular last year.

Mosaics will again be taught by John Christenson, of Sierra Madre. Because of the trend for extensive use of mosaics in home decoration, heavy enrollment is anticipated in this course.

Take your problems to Church this week —

Millions Leave Them There!

Going Up?

To look up and be lifted up mentally is good for us all. Once you learn how to use it the Church is a lift that is inspiring, one that will not pick you up and then "slam" you down hard.

Inspiring services, beautiful music, helpful messages and wholesome associations buoy you up for the week ahead. Regaining your faith in God and self will see you through periods of despondence; illness or accident; tragedy of any kind. This kind of lift is not illusionary. The Church is a lift that sustains and comforts the spirit, one that never lets you down.

With the hope that it will, in some measure, foster and help sustain that which is good in family and community life, this feature is sponsored by the business firms and organizations whose names appear in this space.

PLAN FOR HOLY DAYS—Rabbi Charles W. Steckel (center) of the Foothill Jewish Community Center of Temple Beth Israel, Sierra Madre, who also serves as City of Hope chaplain, makes arrangements for special Rosh Hashanah services in the synagogue of the free Medical Center with Cantor Morris Resnick (right) and Herbert Rosenfeld of the Social Service Department.

Two-Day Yom Kippur Observance Starts Sept. 23

The holiest day of the Jewish calendar, Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement, will be observed by those of the Jewish faith at divine services on Tuesday evening, Sept. 23, and throughout the following day, Wednesday, Sept. 24.

According to the Bible, Yom Kippur is a day of fasting and abstention for the purpose of scrutinizing one's deeds during the past year and aiming at moral improvement. Jewish tradition holds that before God will pardon a transgression the guilty person must seek the forgiveness of the individual who was wronged.

Rabbi Einhorn Continues Talks On Russia

Rabbi Ephraim F. Einhorn, spiritual leader of Temple Beth David of the San Gabriel Valley, will speak on "What I Saw in Russia—Part II," at the Friday evening Shabbat Shuva Service—the Sabbath of Repentance, on Sept. 19, at 8:30 o'clock.

The Rabbi has just returned from an extensive tour of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Rumania, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The Temple Choir will participate in the service with Mrs. Charles Lich, 419 E. Live Oak, Arcadia, at the organ.

Mrs. Marvin Kahn, 190 S. Canon, Sierra Madre, will deliver the Invocation and recite the Blessing of the Lights, and Mr. Kahn will recite the Kiddush (Sanctification) Prayer.

Following the service there will be an Oneg Shabbat reception with Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kahn, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Rosenberg, 1108 S.

El Molino, Alhambra, and Mr. and Mrs. Morton Specter, 426 W. Longden, Arcadia, acting as hosts.

The worship on the eve of the Day of Atonement begins with the singing of the celebrated hymn, Kol Nidre, Hebrew for "All Vows," a petition for forgiveness for deeds of impetuosity and rashness.

The prayers at both Yom Kippur services emphasize the Jewish belief in man's capacity for spiritual betterment. A sample supplication from the Union Prayerbook:

"May we never be misled into believing that the ills of society are the law of nature, which cannot be changed by man. Let us confess that such thinking arises not from human helplessness but from unwillingness to make the needed sacrifices to right wrongs and share blessings."

El Molino, Alhambra, and Mr. and Mrs. Morton Specter, 426 W. Longden, Arcadia, acting as hosts.

News of the Churches

Ex-Polish Army Chaplain To Speak Here Sunday

A message by a pastor who survived persecutions in Europe during World War II as chaplain general in the Polish Armed Forces in exile and traveled extensively through the war theaters during and after the war, will be brought to worshippers at Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church at 10 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 14.

Rev. William E. Wallner, now working in California as area secretary for the National Lutheran Council to bring the Christian approach to the Jewish people, will preach on "Christ and the Jews."

As a Lutheran parish pastor in Prague, Czechoslovakia, Rev. Wallner baptized more than 3,000 Jews and also received 250 Roman Catholics, building a congregation numbering well over 5,000 members.

He and his family came to the United States 9½ years ago and on Nov. 11, 1954, became American citizens. He served three years in Chicago before coming to Los Angeles, working as educational field representative for the National Lutheran Council and Lutheran World Action.

The service will be led by the pastor, the Rev. Ray E. Hansen, in the church's new place of worship in the Masonic Building, 33 E. Sierra Madre Blvd. The first service there was held last Sunday with a record attendance of 150. The church, less than a year old, began in the Upper Room of the Woman's Club but moved to the Masonic Building in order to obtain larger facilities.

Dog Training Classes Set in County Park

The new fall schedule for dog training classes in Arcadia County Park has just been released by Sue Turnquist, trainer for the Santa Anita dog training broup.

Dogs from five months up may be enrolled. The new classes will start on the following dates: Monday, Sept. 15, 7 p.m.; Tuesday, Sept. 23, 8 p.m. For enrollment call Atlantic 6-5328.

It may be better to be late than never, but don't get the idea that it isn't better never to be late.

Dedication Service Set to Launch Youth Program

Returning to the pulpit after a month's vacation, Dr. Ethel Barnhart, minister of the Santa Anita Church of Religious Science, 778 S. Rosemead Blvd., will speak on "Emotional Power in Prayer" at both the 9:15 and 11 a.m. worship services Sunday, Sept. 14.

The 11 a.m. service will include a brief dedication service to launch the 1958-59 Youth Christian Education Program and introduce the men and women who teach the youth of the church.

At 7 o'clock Sunday evening a special promotion service of the Junior Church and Youth Group will be presented to parents and friends of the church.

The children will present a musical program of Sunday School songs, assisted at the organ by Phyllis Trevor.

Dr. Barnhart will deliver the message, "Spiritual Growth." The program includes introduction of Junior Church teachers by Mrs. John Downhower, and presentation of promotion certificates to the children from pre-school to 7th Grade.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bradshaw will present the 8th Grade graduates with their certificates, and welcome them in the Youth Group. Refreshments will be served following the program.

S.C. Auto Club Outlines Back-to-School Safety Rules

Three sets of rules for "back-to-school" safety were offered yesterday by the Automobile Club of Southern California as part of a county-wide campaign under the joint sponsorship of the Greater Los Angeles Safety Council, the Auto Club and local service and civic organizations.

Bumper strips, posters, TV shorts and feature articles bearing the slogan "School's Open-Be Extra Alert" are being used in an attempt to remind motorists that some 1,200,000 children have already started to school or will do so next week.

Six basic rules have been outlined by the Auto Club for parents who drive their children to school:

1. Children should sit well back in the seat to insure safety in sudden stops.
2. Doors should be closed tightly and locked. See that the children do not play with the handles.
3. Use extra caution when approaching the school; your child may be one of the pedestrians.
4. Have a designated location where you let him out and pick him up each day. Remember that double parking is dangerous, illegal and creates congestion and hazard.
5. This prearranged spot should be on the school side of the street. Do not permit him to cross mid-block or from between parked cars.
6. Respect all traffic laws and school regulations; their observance contributes to your child's safety.

IF A CHILD walks to school, he should know the following rules:

1. Cross only at crosswalks. Keep to the right in the crosswalk.
2. Before crossing, look all ways. Be sure the way is clear before you cross.

3. Cross only on the proper signal.
4. Watch for turning cars.
5. Never enter the roadway from between parked cars.
6. Where there is no sidewalk and it is necessary to walk on the roadway, walk on the left side facing traffic.

THE CLUB urges that parents know the route their youngsters take to school and analyze it to be sure it is the safest way whether they walk or ride a bicycle. Bicycle riders should be familiar with these rules:

1. Keep to the right, as do automobiles, and as close to the curb as possible. Never ride facing traffic.
2. Arm signals must be given before turning or stopping.
3. Obey all traffic signs, signals and regulations. They apply to bicycles in the same way as to cars.
4. One rider per bicycle. It's dangerous and unlawful to ride upon any portion not designed nor intended for use by passengers.
5. Avoid left turns in heavy traffic; dismount and walk your bike across busy streets.
6. Bikes should be equipped with safety devices, such as a bell or horn, a red reflector at the rear, tight handle grips, and chain guard. The bike should be kept in good mechanical condition at all times.

Cooperating in this program are the Pacific Telephone Co., Western Union, American Red Cross, California Water and Telephone Co., General Telephone Co., Los Angeles Dodgers, Metropolitan Transit Authority, California Dairy Industry Advisory Board, and others.

Camp Fire Girls Have Barbecue, Swim Party

The O-DA-KO-NA Camp Fire Girls met this past Monday evening for a back-to-school barbecue and swim party.

Those attending were Julie Carlson, Pamela Lunt, Dulcie Mansfield, Barbara Simon, Dixie Leonard and Karen Cannon, with their leader, Mrs. Harry Henze.

The group met at the Cannon home for a hot-dog barbecue, then went on to the local pool for an evening swim with Mrs. Henze and Mrs. Lunt, after which they visited at the Leonard home for sundaes and punch.

A special part of the evening's fun was the viewing of motion pictures taken of the group during its visit to Marineland and during summer swimming classes.

The girls will all be going to junior high school in Pasadena.

F. L. C. Roesses Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. C. Roess, 261 Adams, were recently honored on the occasion of their eighth wedding anniversary at a party in the Playa-del-Rey home of her son, Carl Young. Also in attendance was another son, Jack Young, and his wife.

The following day, they enjoyed a barbecue in the Bel-Air home of his daughter and son-in-law, the Ray Oelschlagers. Taking part in the festivities were the David Roess family, the Oelschlagers, Eric and Ken, and Rev. and Mrs. Carl Oelschlagers.

On their anniversary day, they had dinner at Eaton's Santa Anita with Al Wheeling and were presented with an appropriately decorated cake.

Community Chest ...

boxes, rocking boats, swings, water tables and completely furnished play houses. There is also a large variety of building blocks, tricycles, wagons, trucks and trains.

A 1939 Buick, immobilized and painted red, is the children's prize possession. In the animal cages are found rabbits, doves, desert tortoises and a banty hen. The big, white duck roams around the place, friendly as a puppy.

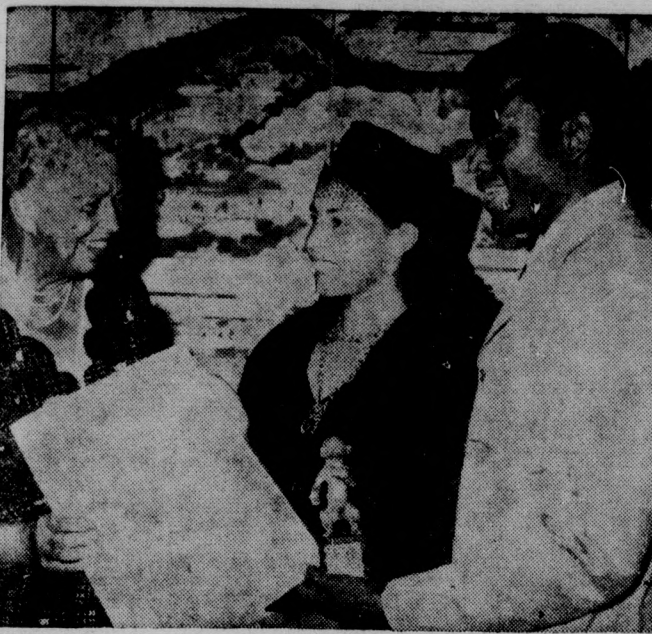

PARENTS are enthusiastic about the school's adult education program. Lecture series and classes sponsored by Pasadena City College Extended Day are open to the public free of charge and have proved most helpful to parents of young children.

The business of the school is administered by an elected Board of Trustees. It is non-profit, non-sectarian and operates on a cost-sharing, labor-sharing plan. All preschool children in Sierra Madre are welcome whether or not the parents make a financial contribution. This is made possible through Community Chest funds.

Children exposed to this type of experience invariably make a better adjustment to later school life, and lay a firm foundation for democratic living.

NO ENTRANCE EXAM

No specific qualifications are required for enrollment in the school of experience.

BIG DEMAND
The man who is found to be big enough to shoulder responsibility will be hunted out.

EXCUSES
Speedometers seldom lie, but they are called liars a great deal oftener than cook books.

S.M. Chemist To Teach At Yale

Dr. Gary W. Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gail W. Griffin, 667 W. Grand View, has accepted a teaching position at Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

The 26-year-old research chemist has been with the Humble Oil and Refining Co. in Baytown, Tex., since Nov. 1, 1956.

After completing Sierra Madre grammar school and John Muir High School, Dr. Griffin went to Pomona College and then received his doctorate from the University of Illinois.

Although Dr. Griffin has never been on the Yale campus, he feels he is going to enjoy working there. He taught formerly as a student assistant at Illinois.

Dr. Griffin, his wife and their two boys, Mark, 1, and Mike, 4, stopped en route to Yale to visit Mrs. Griffin's mother in Idaho.

Among Dr. Griffin's professional and educational accomplishments he lists memberships in the American Chemical Society, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Alpha Chi Sigma, Phi Lambda Epsilon and others.

Bridge Tourney Starts Friday In Pasadena

Pasadena's third regional American Contract Bridge League tournament will be held at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel Friday through Sunday.

Some of the world's best-known bridge players will attend, including Spencer Kapp, bridge columnist, and Ann Safstrom.

Play will start at 1:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. during the three-day event.

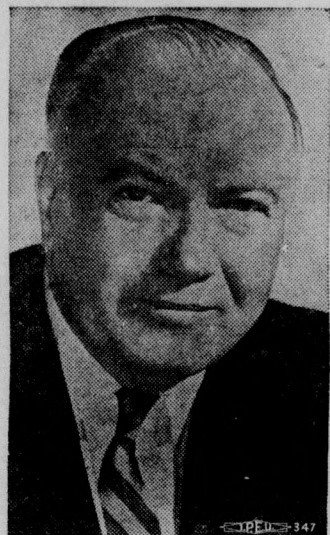

HIGH TENSION

Life is nothing but a hurdle race to the man who has a habit of jumping at conclusions.

When a man spends a night painting the town, he sometimes spends the rest of his life whitewashing his reputation.

Printing is more than just typesetting and press run to our expert craftsmen. Carefully prepared layout, type selection and expert printing make each job eminently suited to its purpose.

VILLA
VIEWSBy Toni Maurin
SY. 7-9634

If you should chance to notice the serene look on my face you will know that I have been communing with nature. I have gotten away from it all and have found my true self. By this I mean that we have just returned from the mountains, where we battled several thousand cars to get to a little retreat, only a block away from civilization.

In our journey into the wilderness we visited the completely natural setting of dear old Santa and his helpers in Lake Arrowhead. (This almost broke the bank).

We were able to visualize the Indians going off to war in their canoes as we watched the speedboats racing up and down the lake, and we found plenty of time for thought as we sat for hours with baited hooks drifting in the cool blue water.

Our arguments as to who was going to clean the fish might have been spared as the hamburgers were homeless. But don't think it wasn't fun. We enjoyed every breath taking minute of it. Nothing could destroy the majesty and peace that you find in the mountains.

SOME OF the people on Barhite are settling down again after various and sundry vacations.

THE JOHN FRICK family returned from two weeks at Avalon. They washed and ironed everything they needed and took off again for a weekend at Lake Isabella with the family in tow.

THE W. H. DUNNING family also returned home after two wonderful weeks at Tahoe Meadows. They had a house directly on the lake, and had a Berkeley reunion. They have been going there for years and have many friends that date back to school days that also come every year.

THE GEORGE AMTHOR family took off in their trailer last week with their five children, Georganne, George, Gwinnette, Grant Michael, and Trudy for a tour up through Sequoia and the big tree country.

MY CHILDREN accuse me of never putting their birthday parties in the paper so I will mention that Debbie had a birthday luncheon last Friday to celebrate her sixth anniversary. Her guests included Christine Crane, Jeanie Philipson, Gretchen Garland, Melissa Mueller, Charlie Goldsborough, Kathy Dorn, Hank Armstrong, Molly Clark, Mike Fricke and Bruce Elmer.

REV. AND MRS. A. R. Gesswein and their two daughters, Sonja and Carol, are back from a five-week trip in the North. They covered the states of Washington and Oregon, and on the way back visited with friends in the Santa Cruz Mountains.

THE RALPH PAQUETTE family of Wythe Road is back home again after a trip to Lake Tahoe (this seems to be THE place this year). It was sort of a family reunion. Mrs. Paquette's father drove them up, her sister from Santa Clara came up with her one child, and her other sister owned the house. With seven children sleeping hither and yon about the house they were forced to retire by 9 p.m., but as a result came back completely rested.

THIS SEEMS to be return home week as well as Tahoe week. The Eldon Osburns are at last reunited. Mr. and Mrs. Osburn returned after a two-week trailer trip with Janet and Ted from Lake Tahoe and Sequoia. They went up with the John Trobridge family.

Their daughter Kit returned last Wednesday from a summer in Europe. She went with a group of 15 young people to work on reconstruction of churches. Their particular mission was to accomplish the re-landscaping of a church in Hamburg, Germany. They were able to complete their job

Hostesses for the afternoon, the membership committee members, will be attired in native costumes.

UP ON ...

Hastings Hill

Who else thinks California should have its own calendar—summer running from June 15 through Thanksgiving; fall until New Year's Day, and spring until school is out?

The Lucie half of "Hastings Hill" is back from a family vacation to Florida, ready for a vacation and unready to answer questions on the respective merits of Florida and California. My only regret is that the two most famous states of these "united" are not side-by-side. There are 2,700 driving miles between Pasadena and Tampa and that adds up to a lot of gasoline, many a hamburger and many a truck along the highway.

Ranchers were water-ski crazy! It must be a national craze. We decided to buy a nice Gulf-front lot, but gave it up quickly when we found it sold for $1,000 a front foot. So, instead of a property deed, we came home only with good suntans and some Cuban recipes.

SORRY WE had to miss Mary Natzell's "coffee" for new and old neighbors one (Continued on Page 8)

HIGHLIGHTS of our trip are two: 1—We almost went over a cliff outside Albuquerque when the car went into a skid (thank goodness the man of the car was driving) and ground to a frame-twisting halt on a rock on the wrong side of the road (we had an enforced four-day vacation here while they untwisted the frame), and 2—We almost saw a Vanguard shot off its platform at Cape Canaveral, Florida. In fact, we almost saw Cape Canaveral, a pleasant point of land poking its nose out into the Atlantic 135 miles across the state from Tampa. It used to be strictly for the sea birds, surf casters and a lighthouse, but now it's fenced off with barbed wire and threatening signs. The beaches leading to the cape are having a field day, however, with several stoned motels, "rocket" driveways, a chrome and plastic, glass and neon tourist mecca. Eager real estate developers are knocking down palm trees and palmettos and erstwhile wilderness.

And as I say, we almost saw one of the rockets take off (not that it got very far), but we didn't know enough to hang around for an extra three hours because there was no advance announcement.

DESPITE the "almosts" the vacation was fun. Florida Gulf of Mexico beaches are great. The children insisted on seeing Cypress Gardens because it was so glorified in Cinerama. We found water skiers on every piece of quiet water, of which there are literally thousands—lakes, inlets, rivers, sometimes the Gulf. And I thought Hastings

Mothers as School Opens

As school opens at 9 a.m. Monday for Eugene Field and other pupils throughout Pasadena, mothers at Field will take a "coffee break" at the now traditional and eagerly awaited "first day" get-together in the cafeteria.

Year Tues.

Hastings Ranch Nursery School will open its doors for its sixth year Tuesday, according to Mrs. Conrad Creim, president. School is held in the new youth education building of the Trinity Presbyterian Church, 3740 E. Sierra Madre.

Mrs. Creim also named the staff—Mrs. Lee Carmichael, director; Mrs. David Orswell, secretary, and Mrs. E. Albert Meyer and Mrs. Thomas Andrews, teachers.

Children are registered in two groups on a Monday-Wednesday-Friday schedule, and in three groups on Tuesday-Thursday, ranging in age from two years, six months to kindergarten.

The school is primarily a cooperative, with parents taking a small but active part in school operations. A few children of non-participating parents will be accepted this year however, Mrs. Creim said.

This morning at 10 a.m. mothers of children who are enrolled met for a pre-school session to discuss organization and plans, talk to the staff and sign up for work days.

Mrs. Carmichael may be reached at ELgin 5-1298 for additional school information.

Pollacks See Europe in VW Bus

Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Pollack, 1005 Cynthia, and sons, Jamian, 11; Rion, 7, and Julio, 2, have returned to the Ranch following a year's tour of Europe.

They were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Pollack's sister, Annette Robyns, silversmith and designer, who has had exhibits in Sierra Madre Library as well as in Europe.

The party arrived by boat at Southampton, England, where they picked up their Volkswagen bus and toured England, Wales, Ireland and Scotland.

Before arriving at Newcastle to embark for Norway, they secured two pieces of coal so that they might have the distinction of "bringing coal to Newcastle."

During their stay in Norway they visited in Sandefjord, the center of the whaling industry, and inspected the whale boats and crews making ready to sail into the Antarctic for their year's catch.

While touring Sweden, they had the fun of "hosteling." Hostels are located throughout Europe for the benefit of traveling students. Food and lodging are much more reasonable. However, Sweden is the only country that provides "family" rooms. Lodgers in other countries are sent to men's and women's dormitories.

In Denmark, their ship docked at Helsingor, the site of Hamlet's castle. Before leaving Denmark, they visited relatives of friends in the States, living on the Island of Fyn.

Following a stay at Jutland and in Holland, they started their tour of Germany which included both the East and West zones of Berlin. They drove along the Rhine River, through the Black Forest and into Switzerland.

When the time came for them to enter Italy they had to put their bus aboard a train, because of the heavy snows, and travel through Simplon Pass.

They drove down the west side of Italy until they came to the Mediterranean Sea. They followed the coastline through France and Spain until they arrived at Malaga. They rented a house in Torremolinas, an international settlement near the coastal Spanish city, for the three winter months.

While they were living in Torremolinas they spent two weeks in Morocco with the Arabs, camels and veiled ladies.

When the weather permitted, the party returned to Italy, via the Mediterranean route through Cannes and the Riviera coast of Italy to Rome. They had visits in Solarno, Capri, Sorrento, Florence, Venice and Milano before recrossing the border into Switzerland and on to Paris.

While in Paris they were able to celebrate the 4th of July at a large party held in the American Embassy for American citizens, and July 14, which is Bastille Day, with the French.

Bastille celebrations are held in every square with orchestras playing all night for the dancers.

Following a visit to the World's Fair in Brussels, they headed for Amsterdam to board a ship for home.

They camped as often as possible and found beautiful camp sites in Italy and at the fair. They were also impressed by the courtesy, consideration and helpfulness shown them by people in various countries, and wondered if these people visited the United States, would the same courtesy be shown them?

Julio's diapers were their biggest worry. Laundromats were found most everywhere. However, there were occasions when none was available and the local housewives "met the problem."

One of their tips to travelers planning a similar jaunt is that they made the mistake of buying their Volkswagen here and when they re-entered the country, they had to pay an import tax. Had they purchased the bus in Europe and traveled in it, as they did, there would have been no import tax, providing they declared the bus as a family exemption.

Mr. Pollack, a school teacher on a year's sabbatical leave, will return to his teaching this month at Garvanza School in the Highland Park area.

Featured are the tropical plantings which surround the building and the landscaped planters spaced throughout the 1,800-car parking lot. Throng Attends Sears Opening

Thousands of shoppers, sightseers and well-wishers jammed the new Sears, Roebuck and Co. store at Foothill and Michillinda yesterday during ceremonies marking the official opening of the newest addition to the big retail chain.

First structure to be completed in the 24-acre Hastings Ranch shopping center, the new Sears-Pasadena measures 365 feet in length along Foothill and 265 feet in depth, containing a floor space of more than four acres under a single roof.

The entire layout, including an automobile service station accommodating 22 cars and the store's outdoor sales area, covers 225,000 square feet. In addition there is an illuminated 13-acre parking space for 2,000 automobiles.

DESIGNED BY Architects Stiles and Robert Clements in streamlined simplicity, and built by Hilp and Rhodes, general contractors, the new Pasadena-Sears is constructed of reinforced concrete, brick and o-ro-verde stone with glass and aluminum trim.

A wide canopy with embedded spotlights juts from the store building's face and runs continuously along the south side and partially along the east and west elevations covering the raised walkway encircling the store and leading to each of the seven main entrances.

The store's $50,000 landscaping job features a generous use of specimen palms and a wide variety of broad-leaved tropicals. Planter islands are spaced throughout the parking area and 60 Breadfruit trees have been artistically placed along the parkway running the full depth of the east side of the property line.

REPRESENTING SEARS' first big retail expansion in Los Angeles County since 1951, the new Pasadena store possesses interior features of fixture design, color, layout and arrangements that distinguish it from any other store Sears has ever opened. Lending influence to this new look are the varied colors of reserve stock drawer fronts beneath the tables

Your Health . . .

Control of Pinworms Is Trouble Problem

By Roy O. Gilbert, M.D., L.A. County Health Officer

To many health officials the control of pinworms is a troublesome problem, but it is a still greater aggravation to the person who becomes infected.

Pinworms most usually infect children of school age, because they are almost continuously handling objects that are more or less common property. However, medical authorities claim that pinworms may very easily become a family affair since preschool children and adults can also be infected.

Thin and threadlike organisms varying from one-fourth to one-half inch in length, pinworms are also known as seatworms or small roundworms. The eggs of the worm enter the body through the mouth and hatch out in the stomach and small intestine before moving on to the large bowel. Sometimes, generally in the case of children, they enter the appendix and produce the symptoms of appendicitis.

THE MALE worm is excreted but the female migrates to the exterior of the body and deposits eggs around the anus. Itching and scratching then occur, and reinfestation takes place as unclean fingers or objects touch the mouth.

These tiny eggs are also found in contaminated dust that may be left on furniture or elsewhere around the body, is also advised. It is necessary to boil such items for a few minutes in order to kill the eggs.

Supervision of health habits, particularly in the case of children, is essential if the preventive or treatment measures are to be successful. There are no existing regulations that require children to remain home from school when infected with pinworms, but it is considered desirable that they do so or attend only when under medical care.

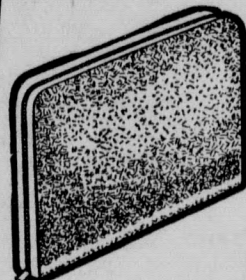

Additional information on the subject of pinworms will be mailed to anyone who sends a card of request to the Los Angeles County Health Department, Division of Public Health Education, 241 N. Figueroa St., Los Angeles 12.

Not Worth
The Trip

By Al Miyadi

ENSENADA—Fishing here is terrific. However, my own feelings concerning this area, the trip isn't worth it. Particularly when you consider the hazard of passing through TJ. Besides, the Southern Cal. fishing is plenty hot enough, on many days even hotter.

SAN DIEGO—Another long trip spot, but still most explosive yellowtail area. White sea bass cooled off considerably. Some bluefin tuna, plenty of barracuda and bonito. If you've never been to San Diego, try it—easily the best service on entire coast.

OCEANSIDE—Fishing comparatively slow for this area. Lots of barracuda and bonito, only few yellowtail and white sea bass. Local fishing is better.

SAN CLEMENTE—Big black sea bass on prow here, picking up two or three every day. Otherwise, fishing only fair. Red-hot week before. Sensational run of whites off Dana Point and Box Canyon last week, then blooey.

NEWPORT AREA—Harbor boats fishing same spots as San Clemente boats. Lately, however, been moving north into Huntington Flats and the Horseshoe Kelp.

LONG BEACH—Pierpoint's big fleet working mostly in Huntington Flats and Horseshoe Kelp area, hitting for limits of barracuda and bonito, some yellowtail. Last week, one boat ventured as far south as Box Canyon, hit for 133 big whites.

SAN PEDRO—Boats from this area working same pattern as Long Beach boats. Some going to Catalina, where fishing is hot-and-cold, some to Rocky Point. Fishing pressure very heavy here on weekends.

ROCKY POINT—Excellent barracuda fishing here. Water full of bait, fish working everywhere. Redondo boats also worked El Segundo, again for barracuda and bonito. Crowds very heavy at Redondo.

SANTA MONICA—Best barracuda fishing on coast here. Boats working Vanice, Topanga Canyon. Been topping 1,000 regularly. Occasional flurry of whites, few yellows. Also plenty of bonito.

MALIBU—Also been cashing in on Topanga Canyon barracuda bonanza. Too bad Santa Monica Bay boats don't leave slightly earlier. Would really murder barracuda then. Bait no problem.

PARADISE COVE—Been getting their share of barracuda, also bonito and calico bass. Weekday fishing pressure very light. Skiffs seem to be doing better than big boats on white sea bass. Bait problem no more, they say.

SANTA BARBARA—Another surprising barracuda hotspot. Also big bonito schools working within minutes of pier. Few yellowtail. But it's a long ride for the same kind of action you can get locally.

MORRO BAY—Salmon fishing only fair, white sea bass unpredictable. However, only spot on coast chasing albacore. Picking up longfins about 50 miles out. For brave guys only.

FRESHWATER: ARROWHEAD LAKE—Fair catches of small trout.

BIG BEAR LAKE—Still holding up as best spot for trout. Knowing anglers picking up limits, nothing big, though.

GREGORY LAKE—Another spot doing fairly well, due mostly to recent trout plantings.

SANTA ANA RIVER—Doing well due to planting.

ISABELLA LAKE—Still hot for crappie and bluegill. Some bass still being taken by trollers, working deep.

AT RANDOM:

Tried my hand at fishing the Redondo Breakwater last week. Blanked. But kids are doing real well. One 11-year-old took his limit of bonito within hour. Using a red-and-white feather. They use a special rig, better consult these experts if you get the chance. Fish are hitting around 8 a.m. until 11 a.m.

Friend of mine tried Redondo's Sunrise Special (leaves at 3 a.m., returns 7:30 a.m.), took his limit in one hour, all barracuda. Says fish hit just at daybreak, that you really get only one hour of fishing. Kind of rough when you have to shell out four clams. Spoofers still the best barracuda jig, he says.

Wanted: Bloodhound Trackers

The mountainwise men of the Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Crew will soon have some new recruits that are more efficient on the trail of a lost hiker than all members of the squad combined.

The recruits are, as you've probably surmised, bloodhounds.

One bloodhound—Tuffy—has just about finished his training with crew member Miner Harkness. Tuffy is a big, eager fellow who can follow a trail that is four of five days old.

Eventually, the crew hopes to have four fully trained bloodhounds. And here is where a problem arises.

The crew is badly in need of trackers to train the dogs, Harkness said. Squad members can't be used because the dogs would become confused by their scents when on the trail of a stranger.

Trackers must be sound of wind and limb, but otherwise there are no special qualifications. A tracker must be able to make a trail of from 2 to 10 miles for the dogs to follow. Anyone wishing to volunteer may contact Harkness either at his home, 538 W. Alegria, or by phoning ELgin 5-2671.

"It takes about six months to train a bloodhound and, unfortunately it takes about 15 hounds to get six good trackers," Harkness said. "When the training is completed, though, the dogs are invaluable."

They can follow an old scent for miles without tiring. They can unravel the distinctive scent of a lost hiker through overlapping odors, such as the shoes the hiker wore, his clothes and possibly the food he is carrying.

A well trained bloodhound will ignore the trails of other animals such as deer and boar, casually sidestep a rattlesnake and pay no heed to other human odors, even in a crowded city street.

A hound's single-minded concentration on the one trail beneath his fabulous nose is even aided by the furrows in his brow. With head lowered, the wrinkles drop down to form a cup which helps trap the scent.

Harkness and other members of the crew plan to use two bloodhounds on every job because the competition keeps them going at a better clip.

THE CREW also has another breed of dog, a powerful Weimaraner named Echoe, that has been used on two rescues.

Echoe is as strong as a bull, eager, well-trained and affectionate, but, unfortunately, her nose can't compete with a bloodhound's. Echoe can follow a trail about 18 hours old, which, by ordinary standards, is phenomenal.

But in the grim search to save a human life, this is not good enough.

For this reason, Harkness explained, the crew will in the future use only bloodhounds—either male, female or both together. The sex, ladies, makes no difference. One nose is as good as another.

Have Car, Will Travel . . .

True Arctic Reindeer Romp at Santa's Village

There are some who claim that you can't really appreciate Christmas until you have met a reindeer with big, flat feet. This attitude prevails especially among deer experts, because they know that the flat-footed variety is the true reindeer, the kind Santa Claus uses to pull his sleigh.

The true Santa Claus-type reindeer can be viewed at Santa's Village, a Christmas wonderland situated high in the mountains above San Bernardino. The biggest reindeer herd in America is housed at Santa's Village and tended by Grady Carothers, his wife and their two sons, Jack and John.

The Carothers family points out that most of the deer on display as Santa-type reindeer in America today are really importers, actually being English fallow deer. The way to tell the difference, Carothers says, is to check the hoofs. The English deer has dainty, cloven hoofs. The true reindeer of the Arctic has big, flat hoofs.

Carothers, a tall, rawboned

Texan, has mounted seven expeditions to Alaska to bring the real reindeer to Southern California. His herd is kept on display at the reindeer barn in Santa's Village. The animals pull a real sleigh which everyone can ride on. And he is proud of the fact that Donner and Blitzen, Dancer and Prancer, and all the other reindeer, are as fat-footed as piano movers.

THE CORAL REEF Bird Shop in the Farmers Market, Hollywood, is one of the few places in the world where a skunk can raise his tail without clearing the room.

The bird shop sells deodorized skunks, which are such affectionate, well behaved pets that one delighted customer shipped three of the black-and-white little rascals to friends in his home town in Oklahoma. The animals are raised on a skunk farm where their firing pins are removed by men who are very skilled—and very brave.

WHO WOULD think that sports history could be made by three horses putting their noses together? That is what happened when Joe's Pleasure, Challenger Tom and Leafy had a meeting of noses at Hollywood Park in Inglewood in the fourth race, July 3, 1957. Their noses came together at the finish line in a triple dead heat, only the sixth in the history of racing.

THE LAGOON at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Glendale takes on an international flavor every fall. Each October a flock of Canadian geese drops in for a stopover on its southward migration. Several dozen of the Canadian honkers—buff colored with bright blue and green neck feathers—stay at the lagoon and gab with the ducks, sometimes for a few days, sometimes two months. One year a goose stayed all winter and rejoined the flock on its return trip north.

TWO LADS from Iowa piled off the narrow-gauge, early West railroad train which winds through Knott's Berry Farm in Buena Park and the boys removed their valuables from their shoes and hatbands. With knowing smiles they congratulated each other on outwitting the "bandits" who stage blank-carriage "holdups" on each run the train makes. Seems that modern TV can prepare kids for most anything.

MARINELAND has a whale who apparently thinks she is a porpoise. Squirt, the newest whale to go on display at the big oceanarium, can leap completely out of the water and over a hurdle three feet above the pool's surface. Just as the speedy porpoises do. Bubbles, the first trained whale in the world, never has been able to clear a hurdle in such athletic style. The two whales are in a tank with two porpoises who can rocket 20 feet out of the water—perhaps that causes the whale confusion.

OLD VIC

London's famed Old Vic Company will make its first Southland appearance when it opens a two-week engagement at Philharmonic Auditorium in Los Angeles on Oct. 6.

The Company, headed by John Neville, Barbara Jefford and Laurence Harvey, will be seen in three Shakespearean classics: "Henry V," "Twelfth Night" and "Hamlet."

Garden Notes . . .

Cyclamen Shines Through Winter Like Bright Star

Like a bright winter star, the florists' cyclamen shines in California through the darkest months of the year. From November through winter and into spring, it pushes up one heavenly bloom after another, providing a show of color that few plants can match in length or beauty.

Where winters are mild, or only mildly frosty, this little gem can be grown out in the garden for a mass of bright blooms. Where winters are harsh and subject to many degrees of freezing temperature, it can be used as a house plant, in a window with an eastern exposure or on a screened porch.

CERTAIN MEMBERS of the cyclamen family are hardier than the florist type, but their period of bloom is considerably less and comes at different times, depending on variety. If you want color when it's most welcome from November to April, then florists' cyclamen is for you.

Where winter permits, members of the California Association of Nurserymen find these cyclamen an excellent replacement for tuberous begonias. Plant the cyclamen tubers among the begonias. Then as the latter quit blooming and die down, cyclamen begins to take over.

In addition to the tubers or corms which are available now, seedling plants are offered in nursery flats. These are less expensive, but will usually take longer to start blooming when set out at this time. A third possibility—especially where quick color is desired—is to buy potted cyclamen in bloom.

HOWEVER YOU choose, there are certain simple steps to insure success. Culture of the florists' cyclamen is very similar to that of the tuberous begonia. Like the begonia, it takes filtered sun or part shade and a loose, slightly acid soil into which peat or leaf mold has been worked. It also shows an abhorrence for wet feet and should be insured perfect drainage. Plant the corm with the top exposed so that wet dirt will not hold moisture around the crown.

When bloom stops next spring, let the tops dry off and give the corms a summer rest. Garden plantings can be left in place. Corms in pots should be removed and the soil renewed before planting. Keep them happy and your bright winter star will shine for years.

The Kulinary Kettle . . .

Original Chicken Recipe
Is Teeple Family FavoriteBy Toni Maurin
SY. 7-9634

Mrs. Frank E. (Grace) Teeple Jr. has a large family and, as a result, spends a great deal of time preparing food. Fortunately this is a pastime she thoroughly enjoys. She is constantly trying new ways to keep her meals interesting.

The following recipe she concocted herself. It met with such approval from her family that they request it in preference to the regular old-fashioned broiled chicken. She calls it:

HAWAIIAN CHICKEN
(Serves 4 to 6)

She uses one chicken or a comparable amount in breasts and thighs. Marinate for at least one hour in one cup crushed pineapple plus one cup of additional pineapple juice mixed with $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. dry ginger.

Broil or barbecue, basting with melted butter and marinade, turning at least every 10 minutes till chicken is tender.

THE FOLLOWING recipe is another great favorite with her family and inasmuch as they love wings it can be both bountiful and inexpensive. I tried it myself and my family, too, voted to have it often.

CHICKEN CACCIATORE
(Serves 6)

$\frac{3}{4}$ to 1 lb. thin spaghetti
 $\frac{3}{4}$ cup butter
1 green pepper finely chopped (opt.)
Pinch of sweet basil
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup red wine
1 can tomato sauce
 $\frac{3}{4}$ cup olive or salad oil
3 cups onion finely chopped
4 cloves garlic mashed
Pinch of oregano
Sml. pinch dry crushed red pepper
2 cups canned tomatoes
2 small fryers or equivalent in selected parts

Warm butter and oil in a large heavy skillet. Add onion and saute until golden, stirring often so as not to over-brown. Remove onions and set aside. Then saute chicken until golden brown.

Add green pepper, onions, garlic and spices. Cook slowly for 5 minutes. Then add red wine and cover and steam for three minutes. This seals the flavor of the spices and wine into the meat. Remove cover and add the tomatoes and tomato sauce. Bring to an immediate boil and then turn heat low and cook for an additional 30 minutes, turning occasionally.

About 12 minutes before the chicken is done cook the spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and return to warm pan. Pour some of the sauce from the chicken into the spaghetti, stirring well. Place spaghetti on one end of a hot platter and the chicken pieces on the other end. Pour any remaining sauce over both and serve immediately.

THIS CAKE recipe is one Mrs. Teeple takes to club parties.

GRAHAM CRACKER CAKE

$1\frac{1}{2}$ cups sifted cake flour
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt (heaping)
 $\frac{3}{4}$ cup shortening
3 eggs well beaten
1 tsp. vanilla
3 tsp. baking powder
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups graham cracker crumbs
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups sugar
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups milk
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. almond extract (optional)

Sift cake flour, baking powder and salt together and mix with graham cracker crumbs. Cream shortening together with sugar and beat till light and fluffy. Add beaten eggs and continue beating till thoroughly mixed.

Add dry ingredients alternately with milk to which flavoring has been added, starting with the dry and ending with the dry, until thoroughly blended. Bake in two 9-inch layers or a 9x13 pan that has been lined with waxed paper and then greased in a 350°F. oven for about 30 minutes or until cake springs back to touch. She uses a butter frosting for the cake.

Cream $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter and then add 3 cups sifted confectioner's sugar and 4 tbs. cream, pinch of salt, 1 tsp. vanilla or $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. vanilla and $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. almond extract. Beat hard and continuously until throughout the fashions, clothing and accessories departments taking up more than one-half of the store's main floor.

THRONG ATTENDS

In the men's furnishings section these drawer fronts are finished in walnut and white vinyl, in the infants' wear and adjoining sections they are of frosty oak and aqua.

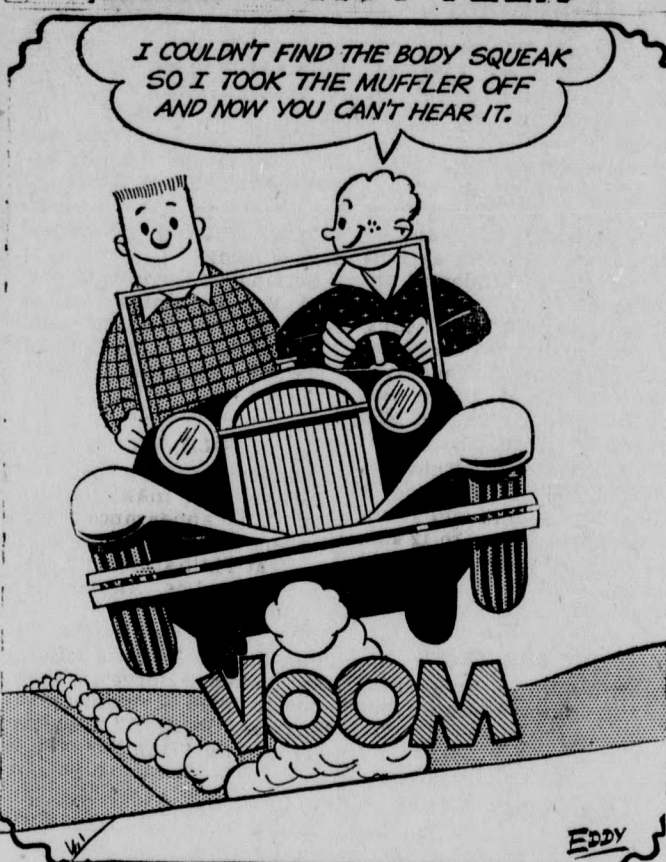

In the spacious women's fashions divisions their colors change to light ash and pink.

Designers have employed newly created wall sections manufactured for Sears in Los Angeles. Their purpose is to achieve more effective exposure of merchandise to the public eye. Above wall fixture height in the men's departments are baffles of laminated polyvinyl acetate in cloth textures assimilating grass and heather.

FOR THE FIRST time in a Sears store the structural columns in the grouping of women's wear departments have been solidly mirrored on all four sides. Here also lighting has been intensified and decor embellished by large 16-light chandeliers and side-wall fixtures made in matching motif.

The family shoe department, with its diagonally-designed seating arrangement, is another innovation. The main floor, north, housing home furnishings in one huge cluster of related shops, has columns and back walls done in eight different harmonizing color combinations. These hues blend to make up 16 basic color families, each with its own shadings from light to dark. Each merges pleasingly with the color of any item of home furnishings in its corresponding family range.

HALF-PAST TEEN

For the convenience of customer traffic to and from the store's second level, the escalator in the center of the home furnishings area is equipped with a wider moving stairway than has ever before been installed in a Sears store. Called a double-width escalator, its steps are 48 inches wide.

THE SECOND floor is in actuality a mammoth specialty shop of appliances, housewares, building supplies and goods known in the jargon of the retail trade as "hard lines." Here the smaller merchandise display, by new fixturing arrangement, has been brought much farther forward into customer view in larger volume quantities than former fixturing ever made possible.

The direct entrance to the store from the service station on the upper level makes it convenient for customers to have their cars serviced while shopping. Also there are facilities on the second floor for quick-service, minor repairs to be made on small appliances.

New, too, is the greatly expanded catalog shopping service making possible shipment from any one of Sears 11 warehousing plants in the nation of specially ordered merchandise or gift selections to any point in the United States.

In the paint department an ingenious blending machine by the press of a button dispenses the correct amount of colorant to match unerringly any of 1,000 different shades.

THE NEW STORE is cooled by a plant of 500 tons of refrigeration capacity supplying 170,225 cubic feet of filtered, conditioned air per minute.

A total of 174 color tones have been applied in the interior decorative treatment. The store houses 53 different merchandise departments. It is equipped with a communication system for carrying announcements and music throughout the building and its receiving and marking room, criss-crossed by conveyors, keeps merchandise on wheels and rollers from the time it is moved from deep inside delivery trucks until it reaches the stock shelves.

Men in 27 different trades working for 42 sub-contractors put more than 200,000 man-hours into building the store. Its construction started Dec. 21, 1956, when Pasadena Mayor Seth Miller formally broke ground for the development.

August morning. Also find that Harry and Lillian F. Gaines are selling their Canfield Road home to build a new one at Corona del Mar.

CHRISTINE AND Gordon Templar, with their daughter, Gail, had a fine week's stay at Laguna. They were joined over the weekend by the Wendell Booth family.

MARILOU and Buck Burgwald have five very cute puppies at their house. Their miniature poodle, Cocoa, and a "traveling man" are the parents.

HEADLINE OF the week is, "La Retta Adams receives driver's license." All her weeks of instruction and practicing have paid off and she is now a gal "behind a wheel." Her recent fishing trip with Paul around Independence, June, Grant, Silver and Gold Lakes as well as Rush Creek, no doubt got her in condition for the "ordeal."

GENNIE MELONE, former Ranch resident now living in Hollywood, spent last weekend with one of her old friends, Kay Williamson.

THE CHARLIE Hardison, Bob Meason and Don Hays families, complete with children, enjoyed a Las Vegas visit.

MICKEY AND Bill Hillard and sons, Bill, Jeff and John, spent last weekend visiting Louise Ross and sons, Jim and Larry, in their new ocean-front home at Lido Sands.
